

Weenthunga Health Network

An introduction to cultural safety in Aboriginal health

Victorian Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation

When: 9am to 1pm 14 November 2016

Where: Saint John of God Hospital, 133-145
Lily Street, Bendigo

Cost: $250.00

VACCHO's cultural safety training aims to enhance the health sector's capacity to improve program policy design and deliver of culturally safe health services to Aboriginal people.

VACCHO's training promotes a safe environment to enable useful discussions and interactions to take place through two-way communications between participants and facilitators.

The course content offered will further your understanding of how to work effectively with Aboriginal people and will cover the following topics:

- Aboriginal people and communities
- Status of Aboriginal health
- Impact of history on Aboriginal people
- Strategies to redress current issues
- The Victorian Aboriginal community health sector and closing the health gap

If you would like to attend, please e-mail sarah@weenthunga.com.au to book by 7 November.